

NAARM celebrates Agricultural Education Day

ICAR-NAARM has organized Agricultural education day on 3rd December, 2021 to commemorate the birth anniversary of Bharat Ratna Dr. Rajendra Prasad, the first president of Independent India and first Union minister of Agriculture. A total of 105 Students from College of Agriculture, University of Agricultural Sciences, Bengaluru actively participated in the celebrations. Marking the occasion, elocution and quiz competitions were organized by NAARM for the students.

Dr. Srinivas Rao, Director, NAARM, who is the chief guest on the occasion, addressed the students and emphasized on the importance of the agriculture, entrepreneurship and overall development of the sector. He encouraged students to contribute actively through their entrepreneurship by creating employment to others instead of job seeking.

Dr. G. Venkateswarlu, Jt. Director, NAARM explained about the importance of agricultural education in the country, and role of NAARM in higher agricultural research and education. He advised the students to serve the farming community in future.

During the valedictory ceremony, Dr Ch. Srinivasa Rao and Dr G. Venkateswarlu gave away the prizes to the winners of quiz and elocution competitions. The programme was conducted in hybrid mode where the faculty, staff and students participated actively. Earlier, Dr. Ganesh Kumar, Principal scientist welcomed the gathering. Dr. Senthil Vinayagam, Head ESM Division, NAARM; Principal Scientists of NAARM Drs GRK Murthy, D. Thammi Raju, K. Kareemulla played key role in evaluating the competitions, and announced the winners. Ms. Aneesa, PRO, NAARM proposed vote of thanks.
