NAARM celebrates “National Science Day”

NAARM celebrated “National Science Day” on Feb. 28, 2022 in a grand manner highlighting this year’s main theme of 'Integrated Approach in Science and Technology for a Sustainable Future'. National Science Day is celebrated to mark the remarkable discovery “the Raman Effect” by renowned Indian Scientist Sir Chandrasekhara Venkata Raman in 1928 who received the Nobel Prize in 1930. Besides, paying respectful tribute to all the scientists who have contributed significantly in enriching our scientific journey.

While speaking on the occasion, Dr Ch. Srinivasa Rao, Director, NAARM, motivated and inspired the students by quoting eminent Indian scientists who contributed immensely in agriculture and other sectors. He explained how agricultural engineering, farm mechanization, food processing is gaining importance in the country. While highlighting the importance of the day and how the science and technology played crucial role in addressing the recent world-wide covid pandemic he elicited the example of Bharath Biotech’s journey and its vaccine. There is no life without science, hence, he requested the students to develop scientific temperament. Nutritional food requirement esp. for women, less usage of plastic, Swachch Bharath are other important aspects he touched upon while addressing the students.

Dr G. Venkateshwarlu, Joint Director, NAARM told that integrated approach of science and technology is the mantra of the research worldwide. The society can’t progress unless there are collective efforts from scientific fraternity. He urged students to “learn to click; and click to learn” in science with deep interest in order to reach their career goals.

The students also visited other ICAR institutes in Rajendranagar, Hyderabad like IIMR, IIOR, IIRR, and IIPR, etc. Samskuthi Foundation headed by Dr Ravindra babu, coordinated with all the colleges and facilitated the visits. During the valedictory celebrations at NAARM, around 200 undergraduate and postgraduate students from Gurunanak Institute of Technology, Sardar Patel College, Bharath Institute of Technology, Sidhartha Institute of Technology and Science, J.B. Institute of Engineering and technology, Spoorthi College of Engineering, KPR Institute of Technology participated. The event was coordinated by Mrs G. Aneeraja, PRO, NAARM.
